Meeting Notes

- 1) Mapping Assessment Items (Siama Rizvi, MITRE) 10 minutes
 - Acute to PAC

- 2) Continued Use Case Discussion (Siama Rizvi, MITRE) 30 minutes
 - The group reviewed a spreadsheet including a non-exhaustive list of cognitive assessments the group has covered over past calls
 - The Trail Making Test seems reliable but is not widely used by clinicians
 - The Brief Cognitive Assessment Test (BCAT) is widely used across SNFs
 - Some assessments are better for particular populations
 - Several assessments measure the presence of executive dysfunction, not necessarily the magnitude of that dysfunction
 - The group generally agreed to focus on one cognitive assessment, even if it doesn't "check all the boxes". In the long term, the group will add additional assessments to help fill any gaps
 - The group discussed the possibility of an incremental development process, which would start with a version 1.
 - The group's initial focus will be to develop a "library of assessments" spreadsheet. WG leadership will then develop a poll for participants to vote on one assessment to focus on first.
